

UIC Architecture + Design Studios Photo Tour

UIC campus

UIC campus

Daley Library

Student Center

University Hall

Academic and Residential Complex

CTA bus route on Harrison Street

UIC CTA Blue Line stop

Architecture + Design Studios

Architecture + Design Studios

Gallery 1100

Gallery 1100

Gallery 1100

Gallery 1100

Gallery 1100

Gallery 1100

Gallery 1100 Lobby

South Lobby

1300 gallery + classroom

Stair between School of Architecture and School of Design

3100 Octagon

3100 Octagon

3100 Octagon

Ribbon Gallery

Arch 499 Undergrad Seminar
Blow: Explorations on biological pressurized membranes, thin shell architectural atmospheres, and inflatable projects

Michael Sauer

Inflatable consultants were a popular and important characteristic in architectural design in the 1960s and 1970s when they lost wind as they faded from architecture and design. The studio grew around a series of projects that had much in common: with inflatable, through movement, and what can be created to take on more complex situations and new life into inflatables by allowing them to live permanent lives. It studies ways to engage with things and bodily forms and explores spatial atmospheres through the production of pressurized membrane models, drawings, and renderings.

Ribbon Gallery

Venus in Furs
"Shiny, shiny, shiny boots of leather..."
-Velvet Underground

3100 Gallery

3100 Gallery

3100 Gallery (below) / Graduate Studio (above)

3100 Gallery (below) / Graduate Studio (above)

Graduate Studio

Graduate Studio

Graduate Studio

Graduate Studio

Graduate Studio

Graduate Studio

Graduate Studio

4300 Octagon

4300 Octagon

4300 Octagon

4300 Octagon

Undergraduate Studios

Undergraduate Studios

Rooftop

